

First Generation

1. Thomas LEATHERBURY (LEATHERBARROW)¹⁻²⁰ was born before 16 Mar 1621/2 in , Ormskirk, Lancashire, England. He was christened on 16 Mar 1621/2 in , Ormskirk, Lancashire, England. He died before 19 Aug 1673 at the age of 51 in , Accomack, Virginia, America. Thomas was buried about 19 Aug 1673 in , Accomack, Virginia, America. He has Ancestral File Number 1SOC-GD3.

This Thomas Leatherbury was the first and only known ancestor of the Leatherbury family in America. It was assumed that he came from England, and from the record of his entry into Maryland in 1638, it is also assumed that his name before he came to the Colonies was Leatherborough or Leatherbarrow. This implies that he was a relative of the family of the same name having many members living near the cities of Liverpool and Manchester, in the county of Lancaster, England.

Thomas Leatherbury was in Maryland by 1638 when he received 100 acres of land as head rights for transporting himself into the colony. He reassigned this property to Randall Revell, who was a cooper. One might assume this land was payment for an apprenticeship as a cooper, since Thomas later became a cooper by trade. He had settled near Onancock, Accomack County, Virginia before 1645 and this property became his home property. He was also a planter or farmer, and by the time of his death in 1673, he was able to leave more than 3500 acres of land that was divided between his two sons Charles and Perry. In November of 1660, he and several other men, who included Ambrose Dixon, Henry Voss, Henry White and Levin Denwood, were taken to trial in Jamestown and convicted for breach of the law concerning Quakers. Leatherbury, Dixon and White were found guilty, but the court did not penalize them (see page 303, Torrence). Most of these men eventually moved out of the Colony of Virginia and into the Colony of Maryland, where they could more freely practice their religion.

In 1659, he purchased a 300-acre tract of land from James Jones and a building on this property was used as a Quaker Meetinghouse. Alexander Maddox also owned adjoining property, and in 1683, Charles Leatherbury, son and heir of Thomas, sold this property to Thomas Maddox, son and heir of Alexander. This property is the first known place used for a Quaker Meetinghouse on the Eastern Shore of Virginia (see page 499, Whitelaw). Alexander Maddox first married Elizabeth ..?.., and secondly, he married Eleanor White. He died in Northampton County, Virginia, before 26 February 1659/1660. In the Court of 10 November 1663, Thomas Maddox, the eldest son of Alexander Maddox, chose Edmund Bowman as his guardian. It is also known that the widow of Alexander Maddox married William Bosman before 1663 (see Torrence, page 451), while the widow of Thomas Leatherbury married Edmund Bowman before 1677 (see Whitelaw, page 1040).

Alexander Maddox first married Elizabeth ..?.., and secondly, he married Ellenor White. He died in Northampton County, Virginia, before 26 February 1659/1660. In the Court of 10 November 1663, Thomas Maddox, the eldest son of Alexander Maddox, chose Edmund Bowman as his guardian. It is also known that the widow of Alexander Maddox married William Bosman before 1663 (see Clayton Torrence, page 451), while the widow of Thomas Leatherbury married Edmund Bowman before 1677 (see Ralph Whitelaw, page 1040). For these and other reasons, it is often assumed that the wife of Thomas Leatherbury was the widow of Alexander Maddox (see Ralph Whitelaw, page 499); however, this is not likely, since Ellenor Leatherbury was named as head rights in a patent for 600 acres of land, dated 2 October 1655 to Thomas Leatherbury. Therefore, he and Ellenor must have been married before the date of that patent and before the date of the death of Alexander Maddox. This confusion may arise because the first names of these two women were the same and because the surnames of William Bosman and Edmund Bowman are similar. However, none of this accounts for the fact that Alexander Maddox and Thomas Leatherbury were close friends with each other.

There is also no proof that his wife's surname was Perry, except for the onomastic evidence of the name of their younger son Perry.

Thomas LEATHERBURY (LEATHERBARROW) and Eleanor were married about 1645 in , , America. Eleanor^{2,21-24} was born about 1625 in , , England. She died before 17 Apr 1677 at the age of 52 in , Accomack, Virginia, America. She was buried about 17 Apr 1677 in , Accomack, Virginia, America.

Eleanor was the wife of the first and only known ancestor for the Leatherbury family in America. It is not known exactly when she married him. Her maiden name was given as Perry by Dr. William S. "Bill" Burton of Nasawaddox, VA, but he was unable to confirm the source of this information before his death.

Alexander Maddox first married Elizabeth ..?.., and secondly, he married Ellenor White. He died in Northampton County, Virginia, before 26 February 1659/1660. In the Court of 10 November 1663, Thomas Maddox, the eldest son of Alexander Maddox, chose Edmund Bowman as his guardian. It is also known that the widow of Alexander Maddox married William Bosman before 1663 (see Clayton Torrence, page 451), while the widow of Thomas Leatherbury married Edmund Bowman before 1677(see Ralph Whitelaw, page 1040). For these and other reasons, it is often assumed that the wife of Thomas Leatherbury was the widow of Alexander Maddox (see Ralph Whitelaw, page 499); however, this is not likely, since Ellenor Leatherbury was named as head rights in a patent for 600 acres of land, dated 2 October 1655 to Thomas Leatherbury. Therefore, he and Ellenor must have been married before the date of that patent and before the date of the death of Alexander Maddox. This confusion may arise because the first names of these two women were the same and because the surnames of William Bosman and Edmund Bowman are similar. However, none of this accounts for the fact that Alexander Maddox and Thomas Leatherbury were close friends with each other.

In his will, Thomas Leatherbury named 2 sons--Charles and Perry and his wife--Eleanor. Charles was his "first" son and Perry was his "second" son. He also named another "second" son--George. However, no other reference is made to this so-called son and he may be assumed to be a son of a favored servant. There is evidence to support this theory in court cases following his death when his widow was involved in a case in which one of their servants had given birth to a son out of wedlock, but his name was not given.

Edited by Josiah Arrowsmith, The Registers of The Parish Church of Ormskirk, Lancashire, England, Part I, 1557-1626, published by Lancashire Parish Records Office (LPRO), page 120, (folio 162): date and place of christening, father's first and last names, his first name, father's last name spelled as Letherbarrowe, date of christening given as 21 Mar 1621. The approximate year of his birth was estimated from depositions he made in at least 4 court entries in Accomack County, Virginia, in which he gave his age. From these entries, the year of his birth was either 1622 or 1626. The earlier entries indicated 1622 and might be expected to be more accurate. It has not been confirmed with documented proof, but it is believed that he was christened in Saints Peter and Paul Church in Ormskirk, Lancashire, England on 16 Mar 1621/1622 and that the name of his father was Roger Letherbarrowe. This information was extracted from the RECORD OF BIRTHS AND/OR CHRISTENING RECORDS, 1557-1678, Ormskirk, Lancashire, England. Under this assumption, he would have been one of the three known sons of Roger Leatherbarrow and Alice Butler and that he was christened on 16 March 1621/1622 in Saints Peter and Paul Church in Ormskirk, Lancaster County, England, but this theory has not been confirmed. This is only circumstantial, but if these were his parents, his two brothers were named Henry--christened 14 Dec 1615 in Ormskirk and John--christened 10 Jul 1617 in Ormskirk. It is interesting, however, that none of his children were named after his siblings or his parents. His elder son did have a son whom he named John but there are no direct descendents with the given name of Henry in any records until after 1800. Furthermore, there are no direct descendents with the given name of Roger in any records on the Eastern Shore found to date. This would be very suspicious, if it were not for the fact that his mother died in 1623 and his father died in 1634. He would not have known his mother and would have had only a few memories of his father before his death when Thomas was only about 12 years old.

He also demanded a patent of land for transporting his wife, Rebecca, and his son, John, since 1634. He surrendered the first patent to Jane Cockshott, widow. He also said he transported one man servant, Richard Nevill, and assigned a patent to Thomas Letherborow. On 25 Aug 1641, he assigned rights to a patent to Richard Nevill, and in 1641, to Mary Troughton, widow. Mary Troughton had transported herself and 6 servants in 1638. Immigration of Thomas Letherborow in 1638 who assigned his land rights to Randall Revell.

16. Leatherbury, William "Bill" F., personal, vital and other family information in possession of author, records, references and other information recorded by the author. This Thomas Leatherbury was the first and only known ancestor of the Leatherbury family in America. It is assumed that he came from England, and from the record of his entry into Maryland in 1638, it is also assumed that his name before he came to the Colonies was Leatherborough or Leatherbarrow. This implies that he was a relative of the family of the same name having many members living near the cities of Liverpool and Manchester, in the county of Lancaster, England.

Thomas Leatherbury was in Maryland by 1638 when he received 100 acres of land as head rights for transporting himself into the colony. He reassigned this property to Randall Revell, who was known to be a cooper. One might assume this land was payment for an apprenticeship as a cooper, since Thomas later became a cooper by trade. He had settled near Onancock, Accomack County, Virginia before 1645 and this property became his home property. He was also a planter or farmer, and by the time of his death in 1673, he was able to leave more than 3500 acres of land to be divided between his two sons Charles and Perry. In November of 1660, he and several other men, who included Ambrose Dixon, Henry Voss, Henry White and Levin Denwood, were taken to trial in Jamestown and convicted for breach of the law concerning Quakers. Leatherbury, Dixon and White were found guilty, but the court did not penalize them (see page 303, Torrence). Most of these men eventually moved out of the Colony of Virginia and into the Colony of Maryland, where they could more freely practice their religion.

In 1659, he purchased a 300-acre tract of land from James Jones and a building on this property was used as a Quaker Meetinghouse. Alexander Maddox also owned adjoining property, and in 1683, Charles Leatherbury, son and heir of Thomas, sold this property to Thomas Maddox, son and heir of Alexander. This property is the first known place used for a Quaker Meetinghouse on the Eastern Shore of Virginia (see page 499, Whitelaw). Alexander Maddox first married Elizabeth ..?.., and secondly, he married Eleanor White. He died in Northampton County, Virginia, before 26 February 1659/1660. In the Court of 10 November 1663, Thomas Maddox, the eldest son of Alexander Maddox, chose Edmund Bowman as his guardian. It is also known that the widow of Alexander Maddox married William Bosman before 1663 (see Torrence, page 451), while the widow of Thomas Leatherbury married Edmund Bowman before 1677 (see Whitelaw, page 1040).

Alexander Maddox first married Elizabeth ..?.., and secondly, he married Ellenor White. He died in Northampton County, Virginia, before 26 February 1659/1660. In the Court of 10 November 1663, Thomas Maddox, the eldest son of Alexander Maddox, chose Edmund Bowman as his guardian. It is also known that the widow of Alexander Maddox married William Bosman before 1663 (see Clayton Torrence, page 451), while the widow of Thomas Leatherbury married Edmund Bowman before 1677 (see Ralph Whitelaw, page 1040). For these and other reasons, it is often assumed that the wife of Thomas Leatherbury was the widow of Alexander Maddox (see Ralph Whitelaw, page 499); however, this is not likely, since Ellenor Leatherbury was named as head rights in a patent for 600 acres of land, dated 2 October 1655 to Thomas Leatherbury. Therefore, head Ellenor must have been married before the date of that patent and before the date of the death of Alexander Maddox. This confusion may arise because the first names of these two women were the same and because the surnames of William Bosman and Edmund Bowman are similar. However, none of this accounts for the fact that Alexander Maddox and Thomas Leatherbury were close friends with each other.

There is also no proof that his wife's surname was Perry, except for the onomastic evidence of the name of their younger son Perry.

21. William S. Burton, M. D., Dr. William S. Burton, M. D., P. O. Box 817, 9540 Rogers Drive, Nassawadox, VA 23413, tel. # 757-442-6831, 2005 e-mail address: drbill@shorelineonline.net [now deceased]. She was the wife of the first and only known ancestor of the Leatherbury family in America. It is not known exactly when she married Thomas Leatherbury. Her maiden name was assumed to be Perry from information provided by Dr. William "Bill" S. Burton of Nasawaddox, VA. Unfortunately, before his death, Dr. Bill Burton could not establish proof of this statement and we were unable to discover the e-mail message and its date where this information was transmitted. He also provided other family information.

Land Patent to Thomas Leatherbury in Northampton County dated 2 Oct 1655. She was married to Thomas Leatherbury before this date and her approximate year of marriage to him was estimated to be about 1645.

23. Leatherbury, William F. "Bill". She was the wife of the first and only known ancestor for the Leatherbury family in America. It is not known exactly when she married him but her maiden name was given as Perry by Dr. William S. "Bill" Burton of Nasawaddox, VA but he was unable to confirm the source of this information before his death. Alexander Maddox first married Elizabeth ..?.., and secondly, he married Ellenor White. He died in Northampton County, Virginia, before 26 February 1659/1660. In the Court of 10 November 1663, Thomas Maddox, the eldest son of Alexander Maddox, chose Edmund Bowman as his guardian. It is also known that the widow of Alexander Maddox married William Bosman before 1663 (see Clayton Torrence, page 451), while the widow of Thomas Leatherbury married Edmund Bowman before 1677 (see Ralph Whitelaw, page 1040). For these and other reasons, it is often assumed that the wife of Thomas Leatherbury was the widow of Alexander Maddox (see Ralph Whitelaw, page 499); however, this is not likely, since Ellenor Leatherbury was named as head rights in a patent for 600 acres of land, dated 2 October 1655 to Thomas Leatherbury. Therefore, he and Ellenor must have been married before the date of that patent and before the date of the death of Alexander Maddox. This confusion may arise because the first names of these two women were the same and because the surnames of William Bosman and Edmund Bowman are similar. However, none of this accounts for the fact that Alexander Maddox and Thomas Leatherbury were close friends with each other.

There were no children known to be born of her marriage to Edmund Bowman.

Miles, III and stored at the Eastern Shore Public Library. Elizabeth was born circa 1650. She married Charles Leatherbury circa 1675.1 As of circa 1675, her married name was Leatherbury.1 Elizabeth was named as administrator of an estate on 18 March 1691 at Accomack Co, VA. It was on this date that administration on the estate of Charles Leatherbury was granted to his widow Elizabeth. She presented Mr. Joseph Robinson as security..1 She married William Barnes on 21 March 1693/94 at Accomack Co, VA. It was on this date that Col. Charles Scarburgh sued William Barnes and his wife Elizabeth (as administratress of the estate of her deceased husband, Charles

Leatherbury). Since Barnes admitted owing 4920 lbs tobacco, he was ordered to pay the debt from the estate along with court costs..² As of 21 March 1693/94, her married name was Barnes.² She married John Stanton on 4 June 1701 at Accomack Co, VA. It was on this date that Elizabeth & Sarah Leatherbury, daughters of Charles Leatherbury dec'd, petitioned that their father died intestate and that their mother Elizabeth (now wife of John Stanton) had obtained administration of Charles' estate while still a widow; she returned no inventory as directed by law. Ordered that Elizabeth Stanton present and swear to an inventory of any estate that had come into her hands or of which she had knowledge. On 4 Jun 1701 it was recorded that since Elizabeth, now wife of John Stanton, had not previously done so, the mother was ordered to provide an inventory; she and her new husband now presented an inventory and an account of the debts she had paid out of the estate. After examining the documents, the court ordered John Stanton to pay Elizabeth and Sarah Leatherbury each a 1/7 part of the estate (valued at £5.15.4 and a 1/7 of the "horses, mares & sheep & cattle." (NOTE: Evidently there were other children?]).³ As of before May 1901, her married name was Stanton.³

According to Lavaca County history author, Judge Paul Boethel, John Hallett received a league of land in the Austin Colony on the east bank of the Lavaca River having arrived in 1833. He was the son of an English nobleman and born in Worcestershire, England where he enlisted in the British Navy. Threatened with punishment from officers, he deserted ship and swam to an American vessel in the same harbor in which the captain acted as his protector and brought him to America as his adopted father. With his adopted father, he remained a seaman and participated in an engagement against the British in Chesapeake Bay in the War of 1812. In 1808 he married Margaret P. Leatherbury, born 25 Dec 1787 in StaffordCo, Virginia, said to be of Scotch-Irish ancestry and descendant of prominent and well-to-do families in VA. Her family was opposed to her marriage to Hallett, but Margaret's attitude was "I would rather marry John Hallett and be the beginning of a new family, then remain single and be the tail-end of an old one." Hallett became captain of his own ship with home ports of Baltimore and New York. With insurance money from loss of a ship off the coast of Key West, Florida, he became involved in trading at Matamoros and later Goliad in Texas. In Matamoros the Hallett's had a mercantile business, but trouble with Mexican authorities in Matamoros resulted in confiscation of the store and the Halletts set up their business in Goliad and in 1833 joined Austin's colony bringing with them numerous native laborers and young bois d'arc trees. The family established a homestead on the Lavaca River, fortified it and planted the trees. They apparently moved between the area and Goliad where John Hallett was at one time the town clerk. John and Margaret Hallett had children John Jr., William Henry who were born in Matamoros in 1813 and 1815 and Benjamin and Mary Jane who were born in Goliad in 1818 and 1822. Benjamin was dead by 1824, unsubstantiated legend says he was captured by Indians and never heard from again. John Hallett Sr. is thought to have died in Goliad in Oct 1836.

William Henry Hallett served in the Texian Republican Army under Houston according to family histories, went to Matamoros to purchase land and was imprisoned there as a spy. He died there in 1836. John Hallett Jr. served in Capt. Heard's Infantry Company F, 1st Regiment in the Battle of San Jacinto. He is believed to have been killed by Indians on the Nueces River in 1837, although Dixon and Kemp in Heroes of San Jacinto say he died in ColoradoCo (these authors confuse John Jr. with John Sr.).

After the death of her husband and several children and surviving the flight to east Texas on the Runaway Scrape, at age 50 Mrs. Margaret Leatherbury Hallett and daughter Mary Jane returned to the desolation left by both Houston's and the Mexican Army on the way to San Jacinto surrounding the LavacaCo homestead. There she has to contend with squatters on the Hallett league, a prime location on the Lavaca River in the region, and in the path of nomadic Comanche bands. Mrs. Hallett immediately rallied the few settlers in the area and friendly Tonkawa Indians in addition to appealing to the new government of the Republic for aid against the Comanches and lawless bushwhackers. She established her home as a trading post for basic supplies and trade of hides, pelts and commodities between settlers and primarily Tonkawa Indians, which became successful because of its strategic location in the region and contact with Gonzales. She became an excellent manager and began to produce crops of corn, cattle and horses on her league. Mrs. Hallett became a major figure in the area and eventually a legend. She was known to be fearless, a friend to the local Tonkawa Indians and severe with them when they misbehaved. Legend says that because of her bravery in handling unruly Tonkawas who insisted on whiskey from her store (she hit one over the head with a hatchet), she was made an honorary member of their tribe by Chief Lolo when he heard of the incident and thereafter referred to her as "Brave Squaw." Despite the ruggedness of the area, Mrs. Hallett was known to always dress brightly and always carried a large chatelaine bag. When a newcomer to the area asked about what she carried in the bag, the reply was "powder, but not of the cosmetic variety."

Across the river from the Hallett trading post was lived LavacaCo pioneers, Barnard Brown and Collatinus Ballard, a native of VA and said to be a cousin of Mary Todd Lincoln. The latter married Mary Jane Hallett in 1840. Mary Jane Hallett was educated in St. Mary's Convent, three miles west of current Hallettsville under the tutelage of Rev. Edward Clark. Margaret Hallett helped establish a local educational system in the area and donated land for it including the Alma Male and Female Institute in 1852, the first public school in the area. David Ives (m. Margaret Lanham), a surveyor, lived with the Halletts in 1837 through 1843. The cluster of settlers around Halletts home and store became the town of Hallettsville which was laid out and surveyed in 1838 by Byrd Lockhart according to instructions of Mrs. Hallett who donated land for the site. Mrs. Hallett's home became the site for county business and court sessions in the early days of formation of LavacaCo after independence. In 1841, Ballard supervised the construction of a larger family log home which housed the early Ballard and Hallett businesses, served as a temporary city hall and courthouse in the days of the Republic. It also served as a multi-denominational church in 1841 and afterwards. Residents recalled the earliest "preaching" in the area occurred in 1841 at the house of "Mother Hallett." Margaret Hallett died at age 76 in 1863 and was buried near her home and original trading post and her remains were moved later to City Memorial Park where the site is marked by a historical marker: Hallettsville founded 1838, County seat, Lavaca County since 1852, named for Mrs. Margaret Hallett, Widow of John Hallett, A member of Austin's Colony, A veteran of San Jacinto who donated the town site.

From Goodspeed Brothers (Publishers). Memorial and Genealogical Record of Southwest Texas. Goodspeed Brothers Publishers, Chicago, IL, 1894. JOHN HALLET (deceased). It is a pleasure to speak of those worthy citizens whose active lives have ceased on earth, but whose influence extends still, and will continue to extend among all who knew them. This truth is doubly true when such a man has established for himself and children a reputation for integrity, character and ability. Such is the case with John Hallett, the original settler of Lavaca County, Texas. He was born in Worcestershire, England, and was the younger son of an English nobleman. When but a lad he was commissioned in the British navy, but served only a short time. Being threatened with punishment by one of the officers of the ship he climbed overboard in the nighttime, and swam to an American vessel in the harbor. The captain of this vessel brought him to the United States and adopted him. He was then in his twelfth year. He followed the sea with his adopted father for years, and was a volunteer in an engagement in Chesapeake Bay against the British. Later he sailed as Captain from both the ports of New York and Baltimore for several years. About the year 1808 he married, in Virginia, Miss Margaret P. Leatherbury, a native of the Old Dominion and of an old and prominent family of that State. While sailing on the ocean he lost a ship at Key West, Florida, and with the insurance money he started a business at Goliad, Texas. Soon after the Mexican government confiscated his stock, and later he retired from that business.

In 1833 he became a member of the Austin colony and came to Texas, securing his league of land, on which the present town bearing his name was built. He made but few improvements, erecting but a small cabin, and died at Old Goliad in October of the same year. Three children were born to this marriage: John, was killed by the Indians in San Antonio in 1837. He was a soldier in the Texas army and was in the battle of San Jacinto. He had settled near San Antonio and was about twenty-three years of age at the time of his death; William Henry was reared in Matamoros, Mexico, from his eleventh to his twenty-first year, and then came here to his mother. Later he was sent by Gen. Johnson and Felix Houston to buy land claims in Matamoros, was arrested as a spy and confined for some time, but was finally paroled. After that nothing further was heard of him by his family;

Benjamin, died in 1836, when ten years of age; and Mary Jane, the only daughter. Mrs. Hallet resided on her farm until her death in 1863, when seventy-six years of age. In 1836 a town was laid out on her place, she donating one-half the land for a town site, and it was named in her honor Hallettsville. During these early days she had the genuine pioneer spirit, and deserved great credit for her fortitude and energy. She was justly called the mother of Hallettsville. A most intelligent lady, a great reader and well posted, though in a measure self-educated. She retained her property until death and it then went to her grandchildren. Mary Jane, her youngest child, was educated at home, and when in her fifteenth year was married to Collatinus Ballard, who was born in Virginia, and who came to Texas in 1840. He started a store in Mrs. Hallet's house, and this was the first store in the whole country. In 1843 he married Miss Hallet, as stated, and became an extensive merchant. He also followed farming and stock raising to some extent. This worthy citizen was a member of the Baptist Church and died in 1867. To his marriage were born twelve children, eight of whom grew up and five are now living: James, Mary A., died when seventeen years of age; Margaret P., married W. P. Ballard, and died leaving seven children; Fredonia Jane, now the wife of Mr. Roue; Frances B., wife of M. B. Woodall; Collatinus, John L., Ezbell, died when in her twentieth year, and two others died in infancy. Mrs. Ballard now resides with her children and has forty-five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. She has lived in Texas under the Mexican rule, through all the career of the Lone Star Republic, and has seen it become one of the most prosperous States of the Union. She has heard the Indian war whoops, the cry of the panther about her door, but has survived all, and now resides, respected and esteemed, in a city that has grown on her ancestors' estates. Her eldest son, James Ballard, was born in Lavaca County, in 1844, and was educated at Baylor University, Independence, and later at Waco. When the war broke out he left school and entered the Confederate army, at first in Shay's Battalion, when he served on the coast, and later in Company K, Thirty-third Texas Cavalry, when he served 'mainly on the coast. On his twenty-first birthday he was married to Miss Alice Zone Russell, a Dative of Louisiana, and a daughter of Robert C. Russell, who was an early settler in this part of the Lone Star State. Soon after marriage he began teaching, followed that for about fourteen years, mainly in Hallettsville, and then served as County Surveyor from 1888 to 1892. For some time now he has been engaged in surveying. Mr. Ballard has a fine place, partly in the town, and on it he has laid out an addition to the town. He is a member of I. O. O. F. and the A. F. & A. M. His wife is a member of the Baptist Church. To their marriage were born ten children, six of whom are living: Susan A., wife of Rev. J. W. Daniels; Beulah, wife of W. C. Baird; Mary E., Addison, Schiller, Eunice H., and four died in infancy.
